alexander_von_altenburg So far, I haven't found true love, or a t-shirt.

The following information is only for you. Don't share any of your information with your fellow players before the game.

Do not read the information from round 1 until you all meet together on game night. Not before!

Discuss with your host whether you should come to the game in costume.

You are Alexander von Altenburg (30):

You are the face of this year's The One season. Quite a few say you have been the best-looking "Rose-Bearer" in a decade. But you're not sure if that's true – it could be longer. Of course, you are not here for love.

No – you're here because of your father, who turned off the spigot some time ago. Up until then, you had the perfect life: shopping in Paris, cocktails in Bali, surfing off the Gold Coast of Australia. You experimented a lot – women, alcohol, drugs – and enjoyed your free and easy lifestyle. That is, until you drove your Lamborghini into a kiosk while drunk in Monaco. It was night and nobody was hurt – nothing that couldn't be settled with a credit card. However, you did end up spending some time in rehab.

Of course, although nothing really bad happened, the paparazzi found out about it. Your father was terribly upset by it. He thought your actions were shameful and bad for business. But you know better: no matter what you do, George will always be disappointed in you. Even as a young man, he forced you to work as an intern in his boring stock company. But that episode quickly ended when you spilled hot coffee over one of the firm's most important managers.

In your early twenties, you really tried to please your father and become a successful businessman like him. You financed various inventions such as the cougar drink, an exquisite lifestyle drink that was supposed to make women over 40 beautiful again, and the Smell-O-Mat, a device that would allow you to not only watch films but also smell them. These undertakings all ended in lawsuits. Your father settled them with a wave of his checkbook, but of course he was still furious. As a result, he no longer wants to hand the company over to you as promised. However, your mother still believes in you and this has given you another chance: if you can manage to improve your public image, you should still be able to take over the management of the company as planned next year. This new prospect helped you rethink your plans, which resulted in finding yourself on the set for The One as the new Rose-Bearer. When the finale of The One is broadcast, and the viewers love you and your new fiancée, nothing will stand in the way of your career. Your father will step down and leave the business to you.

It has been easy to wrap the ladies around your finger. You're handsome with good manners and come from the best of homes. And you have exciting stories to tell about your excursions all over the world. Of all the remaining candidates, you clearly like Cheyenne the best. She is attractive, sexy, and knows what she wants.

Two weeks ago, she started secretly going to bed with you and it's been great. If it weren't for Nina, the producer, you would certainly give the rose to Cheyenne. On the first day of shooting, though, Nina informed you that Samantha would be the winner for this season. You didn't have much choice and so you agreed to the plan. But the more time you spend with Cheyenne, the more likely it seems that your decision will change. Perhaps you don't have to stick to your agreement with Nina. After all, the audience is on your side.

And the third finalist has also managed to make things interesting. At Nina's request, you had taken shy Ella off your radar. But then she slipped into your room last night. You don't have a guilty conscience – shouldn't you give all the girls a chance? However, you must keep the fact that you've had sex with most candidates a secret. Nina warned you at the beginning of the season that the audience has a very prudish idea of romance. To address this, you've made sure you come across as very prim and proper, at least while the cameras are on.

Your appearance: You have no problem showing a bit of bare skin – you know that fans at home love it. That's why you usually wear open-chested shirts. You refuse to be seen without your signature shark tooth chain and sunglasses. You sport a few tattoos, most of them quotes picked up on your travels. Your favorite one is on your left arm: "Travel gives life meaning." Day or night, you always wear the fitness bracelet Nina gave you on your first day at The One, as it's mandatory as part of your contract.

You did NOT kill Cheyenne Aleon. You may not lie during the game. You may withhold information that incriminates you. If you are asked for something directly, you must tell the truth.

Goal of the game: Find out who killed Cheyenne Aleon and their motive.

Personal goal: It is your damn duty as the Rose-Bearer to choose a winner. You have an engagement ring and a rose. By the end of the evening, you must propose to one of the candidates and give them the engagement ring and the last rose.

Your feelings about the others:

Cheyenne Aleon (victim): She totally turned your head. She is your first choice to win. You want to choose her and elope together to Australia.

Samantha Edwards: You just pretend to find her attractive in front of the cameras. But to keep the agreement with Nina, you have to select her as the winner.

Nina King: The woman is a real pain in the ass. She takes everything way too seriously and you wonder if she even has a life outside of this show. You'd rather not get in her way, though.

Ella Newhouse: Since sex with her last night, she's been keeping very close to you. She wanted to talk for hours afterwards and you bet she thinks this is true love.

George von Altenburg: Your father is a stern man and has left some big shoes to fill. He never gets tired of making this clear to you.

Benjamin Ballhaus: Ben's a straightforward guy. You like drinking a few beers together after shoots and talking about your mutual love for surfing.

Judith Freud: You like her unconventional methods. Unlike other psychologists you've had to see, she's not annoying you with withdrawal methods and therapy sessions.

Stop!
